nie Well Founded-The Hill City Said to Have only That Number-The Count to End on the 30th.

The reason that so many people in Roanoke have not seen the census enumerator is that he hasn't been able to get over his territory, and his term doesn't expire until the 30th of the and great advantages would draw en month When Superintendent Porter first Judge George J. Junkin, of Christiansburg, ate dinner at Marshall's cafe yesterday. He is on his way home from a rather extended tour through his native State of Pennsylvania has in dealones again to rehabitants.

So if your family haven't been asked any questions yet, as to your age, business, mortgage on your house, or whether you ought to be in the asylum or not, bide your time, the census man will not let you escape. One of the enumerators, Jake Nabe, who has the smallest district, is already through with his work, and another, Josh Ward, will probably complete his rounds by Saturday to be well founded.

Two of the districts in the First and Third Wards, it is thought, will show up 5,000 each; two 4,000 each, and the others between 1,000 and 2,000, making a total of between 19,000 and The work in Lynchburg has been completed and the Advance of that city says the returns indicate between 19,000 and 20,000. If such is the case the Hill City had better look to its laurels. Roanoke, younger, but more active, can do that well.

Mr. J. E. Tennyson, one of the enumerators in the First ward, in speaking last night of the census.

"The work is very much delayed by the large area of territory we have to cover and the amount of time it re-quires to get the lady of the house to come down to business and answer the questions. I have met with no trouble anywhere, but find that I can't take more than 175 names a

The Lynchburg Advance says of the ensus in that city: The work of taking the census of Lynchburg has been completed and the books of the enumerators are now in the hands of Superintendent Me Laughlin.
Whilst the census enumerators ar

burg has suffered in consequence of that system.

But Lynchburg will be no exception, for thousands have been missed in Richmond, Washington, Baltimore, New York and other large cities, and it is safe to say if the rumor is correct, that three or four thousand have been unintentionally missed by the Lynch

An Interesting Letter From Our Co respondent, "Old John."

PULASKI, VA., June 18, 1890. What in the thunder is the matter with our people this morning. Every business man you meet has his mouth open from ear to ear and the ladies, God bless them, are putting on their sweetest smiles. Your correspondent tried very hard to find out the cause of this sudden happiness, but only could learn that Capt. George T. Mill had just returned from Philadelphia and orought good news for the town, and this was all I could get from them. I would advise our peo-ple not to get excited so easy, for I suppose Captain Mills only broght the rewe that some new plants would the news that some new plants would be forthcoming, and this don't affect me a particle, for I have known all the while that it was only a matter of time with Pulaski, for her resource terprises and people, "for where the treasure is, there will be the heart,"

When Superintendent Porter first sent out his report cards, provisions were made to give the census men only twelve working days. It was soon found, however, that in many towns this was not sufficient time, and the period extended to four weeks, and the period extended to four weeks, and I might say it is built on a solid interest of free to 10 000 in the section of the transfer rock and that rock is half iron ore Yes, Mr. Edilor, Pulaski is all right Yes, Mr. Edi or, Pulaski is all right. She is building on a firm basis and capitalists all over the country are finding this thing out, and in sixty days from this time you will see one of the biggest booms on record right here in our midst that will not only astonish our people, but the surround-ing country. I might say it is almost here now, for men of means are here daily and taking options on every foot another, Josh Ward, will probably complete his rounds by Saturday in general state thought, will require until the 38th of the month to finish their labors.

Superintendent Porter has issued an edict forbidding the enumerators from giving the returns to the newspar before they are sent in to the Census Bureau at Washingnton, but it is quite certain that when the enumerators get through their rounds the claim of Roanoke that it has 20,000 people will be shown to be well founded.

The other three men, it is daily and taking options on every foot daily and taking options on every foot daily and taking options on every foot this mean? Why, they are aware that real estate will be in great demand in the near future, but I am proud to say that thus far real estate has been held at very reasonable figures, considerable lower than other places went not half as many advantages as Pulaski possesses, but so soon as these new enterprises get fairly on the way. God only knows where prices will to say that thus far real estate has been held at very reasonable figures, considerable lower than other places went not half as many advantages as Pulaski possesses, but so soon as these new enterprises get fairly on the way. It is probable the Virginia Democratic State Central Committee will meet about the 1st of July. At this meeting the committee will consider meeting the committee will consider the matters connected with the ap-proaching congressional campaign, and whether it shall be opened at once or deferred until later on. It may be that this meeting of the committee will be held at Old Point. The State Bar Association will hold its annual meeting at that place on July 1, and it has been suggested that the Demo-cratic committee might assemble there on the same day. This, though, there on the same day. This, though is yet to be considered and determined. Major J. Taylor Ellyson, o Richmond, is prominently spoken of for the chairmanship of the commit-tee. While he is not, in the ordinary sense of the term, a candidate for the position, if it comes to him gracefull it is not believed he will decline th honor.

Some of the officials are inclined to believe that the negotiations of the Oicott committee looking to a settlement of the State debt will be successful. Of course it is conceded that all depends upon the basis of the plan to be formulated by that committee and commended by the board of arbitration, of which ex-President Cleveland is a member Some regret has been expressed here that a promhas been expressed here that a prom inent Southern man was not included in the membership of that board.
